PUBLIC NOW SYMPATHIZES WITH PRIEST

Opinion of Community, Where Father Walser Was in Danger of Lynching, Turns in His Favor.

GREAT THRONG AT FUNERAL OF VICTIM

Brother of Murdered Girl Declares From Pulpit That Accused Priest Is Innocent of the Awful Crime.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LORAIN, O., May 4.—The funeral of Miss Agatha Reichlin, who was mysteriously murdered in her bed Thursday night, was held this morning from the little church over which her brother presides to the cemetery at Elyria.

Father Reichlin and two associates officiated.

A great throng, much too large for the little church to hold, gathered to pay its tribute of respect to the popular young woman whose tragic death has aroused the community. While her body lay in state at Parkside Chapel, and later at St. Joseph's Church, hundreds viewed it.

The police still hold to their theory that Father Walser killed Father Reichlin's sister, but public sentiment is wavering.

Undoubtedly, there are several points hard to reconcile.

Walser says he heard Miss Reichlin shriek.

The doctor who made the autopsy says she was killed while asleep.

There is a disposition to wait a further investigation into the priest's life, especially his earlier days at Montrose, Mo., and elsewhere.

The Reichlin family continue loyal to the priest, and yesterday Father Reichlin publicly proclaimed from his pulpit his belief in the man's innocence. He said:

"Various events have happened during the past week. No doubt they are a lesson to us. The lesson is that we should always be ready for death, for we know not when it will please the Lord to call us to himself. Avoid sin and do good. The lesson also is how little we can trust the world."

"Brutality is not a thing that is or was confined to the so-called dark ages; it is not exclusively confined to noncivilized countries. It is right here at our home, in this Twentieth Century. The world sees it every day."

"I am sorry to see that Father Walser is connected with the murder of my sister. I am sorry because I know, I am convinced before God, that he is absolutely innocent and that no matter how strong public opinion is, how spiteful or how atrocious that public opinion may be, it cannot make him out a murderer, the murderer of my sister. The time will come when I will give my version of the bloodhound story, upon which the character of public opinion seems to be based."

"My friends, I believe Father Walser innocent until he is proved guilty. Personally, I must say that I do not know which assault is more brutal, the assault of the murderer upon my sister or the assault upon the reputation of Father Walser, the assault made by public opinion upon that good priest."

"Let us Help Him Carry Cross."

"In your prayers pray for my poor sister. Pray also for Father Walser. Let us help him carry his cross and heavy though it be, let us act with fortitude and we become Christians."

The Rev. A. E. Thompson, pastor of the First Congregational Church, said from his pulpit:

"I do not believe that Father Walser committed the crime with which he is charged. A careful investigation and reading of the details do not show a motive. I caution members of this congregation to withhold their judgment until further developments."

Dr. S. S. Cox, who made the autopsy on the body of Miss Reichlin, told the Post-Dispatch correspondent today that his examination had disclosed no motive for which the woman may have been attacked.

"She was murdered while asleep," he said. "There was no evidence of a struggle. I do not believe that Father Walser killed her."

Casimir Reichlin, younger brother of the victim, said:

SENATOR COLLINS SURRENDERS

State Legislator Answers to Triple Indictment for Conducting a Policy Shop.

State Senator John P. Collins, indicted on three counts for conducting a policy shop, surrendered to the police at 1:30 Monday afternoon.

He called at the sheriff's office in the Four Courts, accompanied by Chris Schawacker.

Three bonds, one for each indictment, each in the amount of $800, were required, and Schawacker was accepted as surety.

The pair left the Four Courts immediately after signing the papers in the presence of Circuit Judge O'Neill Ryan.

LOTTERY TICKETS CONFISCATED

Raid of Jewelry Store Results in Discovery of Chance Concern's Literature.

A raid was made by Detectives McKenna and McGrath on Buchroeder's jewelry store, 607 Walnut street, Monday afternoon, and J. H. Buchroeder and his son, Eugene, were placed under arrest.

The search of the safe in the shop disclosed six hundred of lottery tickets of a Mexican lottery, and a quantity of lottery literature.

The prisoners were at once taken to the grand jury room in the Four Courts. The grand jury having adjourned for lunch the prisoners were held for action at the afternoon session.

Buchroeder says that he is entirely innocent of any knowledge of the tickets. He says that they must have been placed in the safe sometime on Sunday by his son, Arthur.

DON'T GAMBLE ON WEATHER

Dr. Hyatt's Tip Is That It Will Be Fickle for the Next Twenty-Four Hours.

Don't wager any money on the weather. Dr. Hyatt thinks "it is sweet to remember," consequently he has decided to give us a bit of fickle.

April weather in the fair month of May. For the next 24 hours this is to be our:

"Partly cloudy Monday night, probably showers Tuesday; warmer Monday night."

Monday morning at 7 o'clock the temperature was exactly the same as it was Sunday—45 degrees.

People who live east of the Rocky Mountains, but not in the Gulf States, were all favored with some drops of rain between Sunday and Monday morning.

The Mississippi and Ohio valleys, the lake region, Wyoming and Idaho were frosted again Sunday night.

HAS ALUM INQUIRY COME TO AN END?

Early or Late Calling of New Cole County Grand Jury Will Answer Politicians' Question.

THIN WHITEWASH COAT IF THE WORK ENDS NOW

Declaration of Legislator to Independent Manufacturers Shows Stone's Efforts in Behalf of Trusts.

"If I am a bigger man than Bill Stone I will pass your bill."

This is the declaration attributed to former Senator W. S. Haynes of St. Joseph, who introduced the bill to repeal the anti-trust law at the 1901 session of the Missouri legislature.

It was made to James H. McCord, a wealthy wholesale grocer of St. Joseph; Patterson Bain, president of the Bain & Chapman Manufacturing Co. of St. Louis, and R. P. Benedict, an independent baking powder manufacturer.

At the same time, it was the first intimation the independent baking powder interests had that Stone was lobbying to cripple their industry.

Senator Haynes was relied on to work for the bill, but toward the close of the session he told the baking powder people that he was "up against it," and could do nothing for them.

The prosecuting authorities are still at work to ascertain the name of the man who distributed the baking powder trust's boodle.

Tried to Buy Chemical Firm.

William F. Ziegler, the largest stockholder in the $20,000,000 combine, is known to have manifested a deep interest in Missouri legislative affairs. Both he and Kelley, it is said, were seen in frequent consultation at the office of the trust in New York city.

Mr. Ziegler made several trips to St. Louis two years ago, and on one occasion endeavored to purchase the assets of the Provident Chemical Co., of which C. E. Udell is president.

The concern manufactures certain phosphates that are used in baking powder, and Ziegler figured if he could get possession of the concern he could shut out the independent companies.

The capital stock of the Provident Co. is $450,000. Ziegler bought $200,000 worth of stock and then made overtures to secure the balance. He did not succeed, although he offered one of the stockholders—Mrs. Mason—an enormous sum if she would dispose of her holdings.

Will Inquiry Now Be Dropped?

Later Ziegler met Mr. Udell, and during the course of their conversation the former is reported to have said: "You beat me on this deal, but I defeated you in the Missouri legislature."

The Cole County grand jury adjourned Saturday, but it is thought that Judge Hazel will convene another within a few weeks. The investigation of the alum scandal is not half complete, and if Judge Hazel decides that no other jury shall be called to continue the inquiry, then those who watched the present developments say, a partial whitewash will be accomplished.

It is pointed out that some of the most notorious members of the 1901 assembly, who, ex-Lieutenant-Governor Lee alleges, were in on the baking powder deal, have not been indicted.

The politicians have been for weeks trying to suppress the inquiry into legislative boodling.

Circuit Attorney Folk says that, so far as he is concerned, the boodle inquiry will extend to the end of his term, eighteen months hence. The St. Louis grand jury is handicapped, however, by the fact that it has no jurisdiction over most of the legislative offenses that have been committed.

The St. Louis grand jury resumed the investigation of legislative boodling at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Senator John L. Bradley of St. Francis County, E. M. Watson who was a newspaper correspondent at Jefferson City in 1901, and James H. Whitecotton, speaker of the House of Representatives, were witnesses before the grand jury at the Four Courts Monday morning.

Both are supposed to know facts regarding boodle scandals in the legislature.

LAW NOW HOLDS MRS. CUMMINGS FOR DEATH OF HER TWO HUSBANDS

MRS. CUMMINGS AS SHE APPEARS IN COURT.

Slayer of Dennis Cummings Is Charged in New Warrant With Causing Death of E. M. Harris.

SHE MAINTAINS THAT HE KILLED HIMSELF

Trial for Recent Killing in Locust Street Boarding House Opens With Defendant Unconcerned.

SAYS SHE KILLED HIM BECAUSE SHE HAD TO

"I Fear Comparison With No Woman in St. Louis," Says Prisoner Accused of Double Crime.

Mrs. Minnie Cummings denounces the issuance of a warrant charging her with killing her first husband, E. M. Harris, as an outrage.

When informed Monday morning that Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Dalton had issued such a warrant, charging murder in the second degree, she broke down the reserve which she has maintained since being placed in jail to answer to the charge of killing her other husband, Dennis Cummings, and expressed herself indignantly.

The second warrant is the result of the investigation which Mr. Dalton has been holding in private for over a week.

After hearing the testimony he decided to reopen the case and issue the warrant. Mrs. Cummings is also charged with second degree murder in killing her second husband, Dennis Cummings. The preliminary hearing on that charge commences in the court of criminal correction Monday afternoon.

Witnesses who offered to testify that Cummings was robbed after he was shot were there to be called as witnesses.

They will be taken before the grand jury. An effort is being made to have the grand jury return an indictment for murder in the first degree on the Cummings charge.

Letters Vary From Story.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Dalton received three letters Monday morning, which were written by Mrs. Harris to the mother of her husband, Mrs. E. O. Harris, at dates before and after the shooting. The letters were sent to Mr. Dalton by J. W. Gower, county attorney at Skowhegan, Me., where the Harris family lives. The letters were handed to Gower by John W. Harris, brother of Edgar M. Harris, the deceased.

Mr. Dalton states that one of these letters was written in the month prior to the shooting, being dated in September, 1901. The other letters are both written after the death, being dated in January, 1902.

Mr. Dalton says that Mrs. Harris in these letters makes some complaint of the manner of life that her husband was, or had been leading.

He says that her account of the shooting, as told in these letters, varies in some particulars from testimony already brought out.

In different places in the letters she expresses her love for her husband, but she speaks with dissatisfaction of the amount of money he is spending, and also refers to his attentions to other women.

The letters are written in a hand strongly resembling the writing contained in the torn letter found in the grate of the room in which Cummings was killed.

It would appear that from evidence which has already been adduced, taken in junction with the complaints in these letters, that Mrs. Harris felt that she some grounds for complaint against her husband.

Says Witnesses Are Moved by Spite.

"I have nothing to fear," said Mrs. Cummings Monday morning to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

"I have never done anything of which I am ashamed. There is no woman in St. Louis with whom I fear comparison. I killed my second husband. But I think that I was justified."

"These women may tell all the lies they like. They cannot hurt me."

"The idea of charging me with murdering my first husband! We never quarreled in our lives. The day he committed suicide was the anniversary of our marriage. He

KING EDWARD LEAVES PARIS

Great Crowd Gathers on Streets to Bid Monarch Farewell.

PARIS, May 4.—King Edward left the Invalides railroad station on his way to Cherbourg before noon today, amid the booming of 190 cannons and the acclamations of an enormous crowd.

The ceremonies at his departure were on the same elaborate and spectacular scale as on his arrival here.

President Loubet, in a state coach, called at the British embassy and drove with the King through the avenues, on both sides of which troops and large crowds were massed.

The King wore the uniform of a British admiral. In a carriage following that of the King and the President were Premier Combes and Foreign Minister Delcasse, the latter wearing the grand cross of the Victoria order bestowed upon him yesterday by King Edward.

There was a continuous roar of "Vive le Roi" along the route, through the avenue de Marigny over the Pont Alexandre to the Esplanade des Invalides.

The station was sumptuously decorated with crimson and gold hangings and the British and French colors. The band of the Republican Guard played "God Save the King" at the moment of the British sovereign's departure.

The final adieux were extremely cordial, the King and President Loubet holding a long face-to-face conversation. Then the King saluted the officers, bowed and smiled to the crowd, entered the train and departed for Cherbourg, where a French squadron is waiting to bid him farewell.

MONITOR ARKANSAS LEAVES ST. LOUIS

Only Necessary Stops Will Be Made On the Way to the Gulf.

The monitor Arkansas left her St. Louis anchorage at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. It was stated by Commander Vreeland that the vessel would go to New Orleans as quickly as possible. She will coal at Cairo, but no stops, except such as are necessary, will be made en route.

The Arkansas is expected to reach New Orleans in 10 or 12 days. She will then sail directly for Hampton Roads, stopping at Key West for coal.

The jacks of the Arkansas were busy Monday morning making preparations for the intended departure of the boat early in the afternoon. The last of the visitors had been aboard, and the officers estimated that $5,000 persons looked over the boat during its brief stay in St. Louis.

President D. B. Francis and a party of World's Fair officials, who had been too busy during the week to visit the monitor, were special guests Sunday afternoon.

Commander Vreeland was expecting the official party, and other visitors were excluded. When the harbor boat, Mark Twain, left the shore with the party on board, the crew was called up to receive the party.

The visitors, numbering 200, remained on board long enough to examine all parts of the vessel.

KAISER REVIEWS ITALIAN TROOPS

25,000 Men Appear in Splendid Spectacle for His Entertainment.

ROME, May 4.—Owing to the recent heavy rains the military review in Emperor William's honor today did not take place on the regular parade ground, but was held at Centocelle, on a large plain, four miles from this city. The troops numbered about 25,000.

Emperor William recalled the fact that with the late King Humbert. It is estimated that 100,000 persons gathered to witness the magnificent spectacle.

The two sovereigns, the German prince, Crown Prince Frederick William, and Prince Ethelinda and four Italian princes, and their suites and 500 officers in brilliant uniforms, their accoutrements sparkling in the sun, formed a picture brilliant in the extreme.

Queen Helena witnessed the review from a state carriage. She and the other members of the royal and imperial parties were heartily cheered.

The Emperor showed great interest in the bearing of the troops and highly commended the famous Bersaglieri regiments. The Emperor was delighted with his visit to the Pope yesterday. He says it has done much to cement the friendship between Germany and the Vatican.

"CUDDY MACK" AND RYAN HIDING

Constable, Wounded in "Battle" With Former Partner, Escapes.

FOUGHT OVER DIVISION OF PROPERTY INTERESTS

Patrolman Tomasso Is Suspended for Permitting Prisoner to Walk Away While in His Charge.

The police are searching for John J. Ryan and John McGillicuddy, alias "Cuddy Mack," participants in a "battle" at McGillicuddy's saloon at Sixth street and Franklin avenue, in which both were injured.

When either is captured a charge of disturbing the peace will be made. If the other can be secured as a witness, the charge will be increased to assault with intent to kill.

Ryan went to the saloon early Sunday morning to see his former partner, and soon after his arrival the fight commenced. Shots were exchanged, and revolvers used as clubs.

McGillicuddy was left unconscious in the saloon, and Ryan escaped. Patrolman Anton Tomasso took McGillicuddy to the City Dispensary, where his wounds were dressed.

While at the dispensary McGillicuddy recovered consciousness and refused to go to the City Hospital, although he was suffering from a bullet wound that has grazed his scalp and blows from the butt of a revolver that may have caused a fracture of the skull.

On his refusal to go to the hospital, Policeman Tomasso took McGillicuddy to the Fourth District Police Station and left him alone for a few moments in the captain's office. When he returned, McGillicuddy was not there.

Capt. Boyd has suspended Tomasso. Each of Pair Has Killed His Man.

Ryan and McGillicuddy are well known in St. Louis and both have killed men.

While a partner with McGillicuddy in the saloon where the Sunday morning fight occurred, Ryan shot and killed "Red" Houlihan, and he was later shot in the back on account of the feeling over this affair.

He withdrew from the saloon partnership some months ago. The former partnership had some trouble, and the partnership property has never been entirely divided.

Ryan came before the public lately because of his interest in the John J. Ryan Trust Investment Co., and he is now under bond to answer to indictments growing out of the collapse of that company.

McGillicuddy has long been a character well known to the police and seemingly enjoyed special favors from members of the force.

Some weeks ago McGillicuddy shot and killed J. H. Lahner on an Easton avenue car while shooting at a negro. Policeman James Lynch, who was on the car, failed to arrest him and was suspended.

He is now constable for the Fourth district and wears a gold badge, presented to him by friends, among whom was Capt. Boyd.

After McGillicuddy's escape, neither of the participants in the fight could be found and several reports were heard that McGillicuddy was dead. At 254 Morgan street, his home, all knowledge of his whereabouts was denied. Ryan lives at 3311 Pine street and is familiarly known as "Baldy" Ryan.

At noon Monday it was reported to the police that Ryan and McGillicuddy became reconciled immediately after their escape from the police, and that they spent the night together at a "Turk" house and were seen together on a downtown street by acquaintances Monday morning.

Capt. Boyd of the Fourth district said Monday that if Ryan and McGillicuddy refuse to prosecute each other on charges of assault with intent to kill, no more serious charge than disturbing the peace or carrying concealed weapons can be placed against them.

CARS KILL TWO AND HURT MANY

Soldier William Carmody
Run Over by Owl Car on Union Avenue.

PRESENT YEAR'S CAR FATALITIES.

Since Jan. 1.....26
Since April 1.....10

Two persons are dead and several suffering with serious injuries as the result of street car accidents of Sunday.

William Carmody, Company E, Twentieth United States Infantry, whose body was shipped to his home at Mt. Sterling, Ky., Monday morning, was one of the victims.

Carmody was run over and killed by an olive street owl car on Union avenue, between De Oliveville and Waterman avenues.

Motorman Michael J. McNamara says that when he saw the body lying on the tracks the car was too close to the body to allow it to be stopped.

The police hold the theory that Carmody was assaulted and robbed, and his body placed on the tracks to hide evidence of the work of the robbers.

On the car which struck the soldier were several private and officers, and they carried the body to the emergency hospital at the World's Fair grounds, from which it was sent to the undertaking establishment at the request of Lieutenant-Colonel J. W. Jacobs of the quartermaster's department.

Carmody came to St. Louis from the Columbus, O., barracks to participate in the dedication parade. He enlisted at Mount Sterling, Ky.

No money or valuable articles were found in his torn uniform.

Lindner fell from a car at Grand and Fairview avenues at 7 o'clock Monday morning and sustained concussion of the brain.

He was 32 years old and lived at 3425 Tennessee avenue.

Mrs. Mary Dunn, aged 62, a widow, living at 2901 Dayton street, was severely injured by falling as she alighted from a Grand avenue car at Grand avenue and North Market street.

After being cared for at the home of Dr. Louis Tamm at 3314 North Market street, Sunday night, she was sent to her home.

Winton Dreher, aged 10, of 1724 Corn avenue fell from a street car at Marcus avenue and Ledue street and sustained injuries that are expected to cause his death. He was stealing a ride when the sudden stoppage of the car caused him to fall.

Michael Curran, aged 70, living at 4138 Fairfax avenue, and William Fahey, a Suburban line conductor, were injured in a collision between a Cass avenue Transit company car and a Union avenue Suburban car at Union and St. Louis avenues Sunday afternoon.

Curran sustained a cut below the left eye, scalp wounds and severe bruises by being thrown to the floor of the car.

Fahey's arm was severely bruised. The Cass avenue car is said to have struck the Union avenue car as it was crossing the street.

A. W. Palmer was the Transit company motorman and Patrick Burke the Suburban motorman.

DENVER GREET'S THE PRESIDENT

Thousands of People Fill the Streets to See the Nation's Chief.

DENVER, May 4.—This is President's day in Colorado, and at every stopping place on President Roosevelt's itinerary it has been observed in Fourth of July fashion.

The nation's chief executive was the guest of the city of Denver for two and one-half hours, and the people, regardless of political affiliations, greeted him with a warmth and heartiness of welcome not exceeded on his transcontinental tour.

The city's ordinary population of about 175,000, with thousands of visitors from other parts of the state, was massed along the streets and avenues of the line of march, at the state capitol grounds and in City Park, and every man, woman and child in the city had an opportunity of getting a good look at the distinguished guest during his drive over a route about six miles in length, which was the principal feature of the program for the day.

The mayor had proclaimed a holiday, schools were closed, business houses were closed and beautiful decorations were displayed on the capitol and many business buildings by the procession. The President made but one speech in this city, and that was delivered in the open air on the capitol grounds, where no less than 25,000 people were assembled. The sun shone brightly during the President's visit and no incident or accident occurred to mar the pleasure of the occasion for Mr. Roosevelt.

The presidential train crossed the state line from Kansas early this morning and at Hugo Gov. James H. Peabody, returning from St. Louis, joined the President and welcomed him to the centennial state.

The governor and his party accompanied the President and his party to the capitol grounds, where they were met by the entire day and will accompany him as far as the southern state line to-day afternoon.

A military escort was in waiting at the depot to receive President Roosevelt on his arrival in this city at 10:30 a. m. Mayor R. R. Wright, Jr., and the members of the reception committee appointed by him greeted the presidential party.

CRUSHED TO DEATH IN AN EXCAVATION

Frank Steincomb Was for Half an Hour Under Tons of Clay.

Frank Steincomb was buried under tons of clay and stone in an excavation at Sixteenth and street and Cass avenue Monday morning, and died an hour after he was dug out by fellow-workmen.

Steincomb was at work in the bottom of the excavation, digging close to one side of it, when, without warning, the straight wall of clay and stone above him crumbled and rolled upon him, burying him several feet deep.

Other workmen in the excavation began at once to dig in the pile of dirt with spades to release him, but it was nearly half an hour before they got him out.

They carried him to the office of Dr. Jacobson, at Sixteenth and Mullanphy streets, and he died there on the operating table.

His skull was fractured and his body crushed in many places. He was unconscious when the other workmen found him. Steincomb lived at 1838 Division street and was 38 years old. He was in the employ of John Zeussner, a contractor, and was for the building to be erected at Sixteenth and Cass avenue for Halirung & Grimm.

The body of the man was removed from the physician's office to his home.

THE SHIRT STORE.

'Tis by the right of our might as a strong factor in the shirt world that we lay claim to the distinctive term, "The Shirt Store." We know that nowhere else is the study of shirt fashions and shirt making given more serious thought than here—the results are a high achievement not equaled elsewhere in our city.

Our shirtings are imported by us direct from France and Scotland; designs and colorings are in advance of those shown by custom-shirt makers and never seen in other ready-to-wear shirts. The advantage of exclusiveness and authoritative fashions, always in good taste, are appreciated by all who see them.

Everything new in Madras and genuine French Percalles, both plaited and plain negligee styles, either attached or detached cuffs.

A WELL-TIMED RAID COMMANDED BY SERGEANT CHUB

The Rexall Soldiers score another victory over their enemy, Dyspepsia.

It has been Mr. Boarder's habit to take his meals at all times and places, wherever he might fancy.

Being a strong man, he felt no ill effect for some time, then his appetite became irregular, and his food distressed him, and finally the mere sight or odor of food became nauseating. At this time he began to realize that he was a captive of Dyspepsia, and try as he would he could not break his bonds. His weight fell off, he became nervous and irritable, could not sleep, and his suffering was intense.

St. Patrick's Parish Fair.

The members of St. Patrick's parish announce the program for three days, fair to be held in the east nave of the Exposition Building, May 25, 26 and 27. On the first evening panoramic and pictures of the notable points in Ireland will be shown and the legends told by Rev. J. Dempsey of St. Patrick's Church. May 28 there will be a dance and supper, the evening will be devoted to miscellaneous entertainment.

"Boro-Formalin" (Elmer & Amend) used as tooth and mouthwash in the morning leaves mouth sweet and pure all day.

The REXALL soldiers rescued Mr. Boarder just in time, and took him to their headquarters, Wolff-Wilson Drug Co.'s store, where he was supplied with REXALL Dyspepsia Tablets. To the surprise and joy of Mr. Boarder he has gained strength and weight; his appetite is remarkable; his sleep is peaceful; he is happy, and soon expects to take up a man's full work again. To the curative properties of the REXALL Dyspepsia Tablets alone he attributes his release from Dyspepsia.

DID MURDER OVER PRICE OF LUNCH

Barney Barnett, Keeper of Lunch Stand, Shot and Killed by Stranger.

Barney Barnett, aged 49 years, night cook in Frank Brown's restaurant, at the corner of Twenty-first and Market streets, was shot and killed at 2 o'clock Monday morning by an unknown man who escaped by running north on Twenty-first street.

After the shot was heard by residents of the neighborhood and the man was seen running away from the lunch counter, Barnett was found there with a bullet wound in his left breast. He was taken to the City Hospital in a carriage and was dead when the physician examined him.

The police have no clue to the murderer except the reports given of a difficulty between Barnett and three men early in the evening over the price of some lunch.

One of these men may have returned and shot Barnett, as they were very angry, and in the quarrel Barnett struck one of them on the head with a frying pan.

Barnett was married and lived at 217 Quincy street.
